you've arrived somewhere

rather special

A residence with a rather regal air - unsurprising since the Estate was once home to descendants of a King of Glamorgan.

Built by Jevan ap David, a Welsh notable, in the early fifteenth century. The inclusion of the pointed Gothic stone arch in the house's architecture has suggested to some that the house began life as a small monastery.

Whatever its origins, Pencoed House Estate is one of the oldest properties in Glamorgan.

Offering an idyllic and serene setting in the heart of the South Wales countryside, Pencoed House Estate provides the perfect fairytale wedding venue for the most important occasion of your lives. If planning your big day is something you've dreamed of all your life, then we firmly believe in bespoke.

A couple in formal attire, a man in a dark suit and a woman in a light-colored, textured dress, are seen from behind, looking at a large, multi-colored stained glass window. The window is illuminated from within, showing shades of green, pink, and orange. The scene is set at night, with a dark building and some foliage visible in the background. The overall mood is romantic and elegant.

a captivating venue for your special day

Every couple dreams of a unique and memorable experience that they and their families can treasure forever.

Yours exclusively for the day, the Estate and its 36 acres of peaceful yet captivating grounds afford wonderful photographic opportunities to capture every memorable moment.

Pencoed House Estate is fully licensed for civil ceremonies & partnerships. Celebrations typically take place in our opulent Old Hall.

Pencoed House is yours for the day... and so the choice is yours to style the venue as you wish.

Our years of experience as a family run business mean that we have an address book brimming with experienced and trustworthy contacts, spanning caterers, florists, photographers and all manner of entertainers. Sometimes it's the smallest things that make the biggest impact.

a colourful tapestry of history & folklore

The many residents of the house have included a Member of Parliament, Sheriffs of the County, Ministers of the Church, numerous affluent farmers and descendents of a King of Glamorgan.

Legend even dictates that it was once the residence of King Arthur and Queen Guinevere, and that the Black Prince – during turbulent times - once hid his wife for four months in one of the tunnels supposedly linked to Pencoed.

The origins of the Estate remain the subject of much debate, but it seems most likely that it was built by Jevan ap David, a Welsh notable, in the early fifteenth century.

Whatever its origins, Pencoed House Estate is one of the oldest properties in the County of Glamorgan still occupied as a private residence, and remains a jewel in the County's crown.

a quaint bar with

panoramic views

A venue as exclusive as ours deserves an extraordinary bar, characterized by its stone walls, plush plum upholstery and breathtaking panoramic views of the surrounding woodland.

Our pride stems from the exceptional drinks selection and extensive wine list we offer. The champagne menu showcases a carefully curated assortment of Perrier Jouet champagne. For ale enthusiasts, we feature award-winning ales from our local brewer, Glamorgan Brewing Company, alongside premium lagers and on-tap Guinness.

Additionally, our Glenfarclas whiskey library boasts selections dating from the 1960s to the 1990s, complemented by well-stocked gin and rum cabinets.

To align with our flexible approach to weddings, we are delighted to craft a personalized drinks package tailored to complement your catering choices.

Upon confirming your booking, you will receive a personal invitation to attend one of our complimentary wine tasting evenings. This ensures that your chosen drinks perfectly harmonize with your selected menu, offering you complete peace of mind for your special day.
